TO THE PEOPLE.

To THE PEOPLE.

It is well known that nervous or sick Head-scene country, but that it has been considered incurable. Such in anomaly, indeed, have medical men believed it to be, that an effort even to relieve it is rarely attempted, and an endeavor to cure it, ill less becausely made. These considerations a part, have induced me to try in my own practice a prescription from a distinguished physician of the United States, which I am pleased to say, has, in nearly every instance, either prevented a paroxysim, relieved it when L. med, or cared the the disease. Until recently, the medicines compaining the prescription, though known, and separately used for hundreds of years; have never been uniarstood or appreciated ascombined and applied to the enre of arrows fiscases. The question so often asked for centuries past, and never satisfactorily answered until the present, may now be put with a reasonable expectation of meeting with a response, forced from the hearts of greatful thousants, who may be relieved or cured of that truly san'ts, who may be relieved or cured of that truly distressing disease, nervous or sick headache. In order the modical profession, of whom none, I believe, pretend to treat the disease with the expec-tation of doing much good, may know something of the effects of the medicine, I will remark that it is an alterative, a roose stimulant, and toxic. I will farther state that nervous or sick headache is justly attributed to derangement of either the stom-ach or liver, or in some cases of both. The brain, ach or liver, or in some cases of both. The brain, being infirmately related, by association of sympathy, to every other part of the system; and being also the great fountain, whence all the organs receive their vital power, as well as the sentine, as it were, which takes cognizance of all actions, healthy or direased, continually going on in the body, must of necessity and from the ustave of things, be affected in one way or another from derangement of organs with which it is so intimately associated. Such being the case, and inasmuch as the stomach, or liver, or both may be at fault is the production of nervous or sick headache, and as the remedy referred to, braces up the stomach, acts upon the liver, and gives buoyancy to the whole nervous system, in a manner peculiarly adapted to re-instate the wonted action of the fact. dapted to re-instate the wonted action of the fac-uity parts, it would seem to follow as a necessary consequence, that the head before sick, together with the whole body, may be made sound, by a proper application of this remedy. Laying aside however, atheory, which has been successfully applied to practice, I will give 'the certificates of the efficacy of the medicine, known under the name of WHEATEN'S SICK HEADACHE REMEDY— —and that the people may know that the certifi-cates are not manufactured for the occasion, the address of the individuals referred to, will des-ienate the residence as well as the name of each, address of the individuals referred to, will designate the residence as well as the name of each, to all of whom letters may be written by any one, if it is so desired. The first certificate I shall give is from a publication in the "Grand River Chonicle," written by the editor thereof, without any cle," written by the editor thereof, without any solicitation or request on my part, and is as fol-

His taavelling agenta few months ago, left several bottles of it at this office, with instructions not to press the sale of it on the public, until its efficacy had been thoroughly tested. We have disposed of a few bottles of it to persons afflicted with that dreadful mulady, sick headache, and are gratified to state, that in every instance the remedy afforded the desired relief. The preparation having thus far within our own knowledge, sustained its high reputation, we no longer hesitate to recommend it to the public." The others are from persons living near me, with Asnow Rocs, Oct. 25, 1854.

Dr. W. Price—Dear Sir—It affords me pleasure to say to you, that one bottle of Wheaten's Sick Haalache Remedy has cared me of nervous or sick head thee, of about twenty user's standing. For a long time I had an attack of it every two or three weeks, which continued two or three days at a time; and was often compelled to take my bed. The siftew years it did not return oftener than once a onth, but was more violent and protracted than when it recurred so frequently. At first I tried your remedy as a preventive, and it invariably relieved me in forty or affy minutes. I may add that the effects produced on me in every particular, were such as are described in the directions, namely; buoyancy and improvement in my whole system. I am now in good braith, and have been so for about twelve months. Having used many remedies, I can truly say, Wheeten's Sick Headachs Remedy as prepared by you, is the only one worth trying; and I speak not only from the result of my own observation, but from the statement of a number of other persons, whose veracity cannot be questioned. All persons afficted with so painful a disease, should give it a fair trial, and I have but own observation, but from the statement or a number of other persons, whose veracity cannot be questioned. All persons afflicted with so painful a disease, should give it a fair trial, and I have but little doubt, but that when it has been properly tried, and its virtues practically tested, it will be considered low at $1 per bottle.
